DURATION : 01 Hour

PART ONE : READING (8 pts)

Rural exodus is the moving of young people from village to town. The main reason why young people are leaving rural areas is the improvement of their living conditions. Most of the rural areas present bad living conditions. First of all, there is no clean water, no electricity and the rural jobs are very difficult and tiring. There are no attractive places such as pubs, cinemas and night clubs. Besides, there are no secondary schools; students after primary school are obliged to go to the city so that they can continue their studies.
